Update on the Discovery of Historic Chemicals at the Site Formerly Known as Anaconda West

Please plan to attend the next Chapman University Town Hall meeting on Thursday, April 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. in Irvine Lecture Hall, Room SC150. Paul Singarella, lead counsel at Latham & Watkins, Thierry Sanglerat, principal at GeoSyntec, and campus officials will discuss Chapman's efforts to address the discovery of historic chemicals at the site formerly known as Anaconda West. We do not plan to address other matters. This will be a presentation of the facts and issues known to date. You will have an opportunity to ask questions and hear directly from our experts. GeoSyntec is a nationally recognized environmental engineering and consulting firm. Paul Singarella has been practicing environmental law with Latham for 25 years and holds an MS in Environmental Engineering from MIT in addition to his law degree. Please join us for this important discussion.

FREE PARKING FOR THIS MEETING WILL BE AVAILABLE IN ARGYROS FORUM LOT.
